To whom it may concern:

Participating in the ICF Vancouver Chapter Coach Giving Leadership Program has contributed significantly to my professional development as a coach. As one of the founding members of the Coach Giving Committee, I have been involved since the program's inception.

Coaching in the program has provided valuable experience in leadership coaching to add to my range of expertise. It has given me opportunities to work with Directors, Senior Managers and emerging leaders in health care, housing, funding organizations and environmental agencies.

In the past year, a leader in an acting director role developed and implemented a strategy to change the culture in her department and its 'brand' in the organization on top of rolling out a new admin systems platform. Through coaching she gained confidence to have difficult conversations with staff members which resulted in a reassignment that improved moral for the entire team. She described the work she did during our engagement as pivotal to her career.

As the CGLP has evolved over the years it has required a solid organizational structure to support it. With Sunaina Sharma's leadership this structure has benefitted from her professional coaching and legal expertise to bolster it with a level of rigor befitting a world class program.

With gratitude,
